

BUDGET PLANNER

Professional & Wellness Guide

Budget Tracking

	Start	End
Budget Tracking:	$476,050
Personal Development:	$800,30
Personal Development:	$804,450
Personal Development:	$115,3000
Personal Development:	$1590,59
Personal Development:	$5905,90

	Start	End
Personal Development:	$29%	$,9%
Personal Development:	$99	115
Personal Development:	$55	715
Personal Development:	$,6	30
Personal Development:	$3,1	5,0
Personal Development:	$80	90

17 Budget Planner

A clear, shame-free worksheet for seeing money, choosing priorities, and planning ahead.

Turn scattered numbers into a usable plan with essentials, goals, flexibility, and review points.

Money Snapshot

Record a simple starting picture without judgment.

Planning period: ...

Expected take-home income: ...

Cash available at the start: ...

Bills or obligations already due: ...

The money question I most need answered is...

Essentials First

List needs and protect the expenses that keep life stable.

Housing and utilities total...

Food and household basics total...

Transportation or work costs total...

Health, medication, or care costs total...

Minimum debt or required payments total...

Flexible Spending

Give optional categories boundaries before spending happens.

Personal spending allowance: ...

Eating out or entertainment limit: ...

Clothing or household extras limit: ...

Gifts and events amount: ...

A category I can pause if needed is...

Goals and Buffers

Assign money to future needs in small, visible steps.

Emergency buffer target and first step: ...

Upcoming annual expense: ...

Short-term goal and due date: ...

Amount I can set aside this period: ...

A realistic reason this goal matters is...

Plan for Friction

Create responses for surprises rather than relying on panic.

If income changes, I will review...

If an urgent expense appears, I will pause...

A trusted person or service I can contact is...

One subscription or fee to verify is...

A bill date I can move or automate is...

Review and Reset

Use the numbers to improve the next plan, not punish yourself.

What matched the plan?

What cost more and why?

Which expense brought real value?

What should be reduced, renegotiated, or researched?

The next review date is...

Use and safety note

Keep financial information private; verify figures, laws, benefits, and debt terms with qualified sources when needed. This is educational, not financial advice.

This printable tool is for general education and organization. Adapt it to your household, abilities, schedule, and circumstances.